“ *Wife, The woman I love, who will do anything for anybody else, with a smile, untill she had to ask for other people to help her to it for herself, or other people. She never stop that with a smile, untill the day she went to heaven. That a girl Helen, I know your journey just began. “ Grandma,

*Where do I begin?? My daughter Ava unfortunately is going to be too young to remember the beautiful, loving woman and Grandmother you are. However, it will no doubt be very easy for me to describe to her the Angel you were. The way that you could make a complete stranger feel comfortable and at home. The way that you're smile, now forever shown in pictures, would light up the room. You had such a beautiful and warming smile. On a more personal note, I will always remember and pass on the way you taught me to remember words I forgot. You in the most humorous way would tell me to recite the alphabet and when I'd say the letter of the word I forgot I'd remember that word. It never worked, but to this day I still do it. Also, when I would lose my chain of thought on what I was talking about, you would tell me to STOP!!, walk backwards, and that I would cross the spot where I lost my thoughts and I'd remember and pick up where I left off.....Again, It has never worked, but to this day I still do it. These are the kind of loving memories I will forever have of you and will no doubt pass on to my daughter. It's these traditions and tidbits of love that I will pass on to my daughter and will always look back and remember, respect, and appreciate you for sharing them with me. I will miss you!!
My eternal love and respect,
Your Grandson, Jason.##imported-begin##Jason

“ Mom,
You have given me so much love from the beginning of time (my life). You have always been there to teach and let me experience life. We will be with each other again, for this I pray. As I promised, I will take care of Dad (or as much as he'll let me!!).

Your Never-Ending
